Armistice Day—Remembrance and Warning

Armistice Day is Tuesday, but the America of 1941 will give it a scant and perfunctory observance. The national reaction to this one holiday tells more about world changes since 1918 than volumes of history could tell.

British Sink 10 Axis Ships in Mediterranean

Admits Sinking of Destroyer Cossack in Another Action

LONDON (AP)—Staggering blows to Axis efforts to keep an open Mediterranean supply line to North Africa were claimed by the British Monday as they rejoiced over an admiralty announcement that 2 Axis convoys of 10 ships and one Italian guardian destroyer were destroyed Sunday.

King George, himself, rewarded the commander of that action, underscoring what the admiralty called a "brilliant and determined action" by four British ships which rushed in to attack in the face of more and heavier Italian ships, finished the job and reached port without a scratch.

In one respect the Italian exceeded the British claim by acknowledging that two of their destroyers were sunk and another damaged. They declared that the number of merchantmen sunk was 7 and asserted that in an air attack a British cruiser and destroyer were struck by air launched torpedoes.

What otherwise would be a day of jubilation for sea-dogs was marred by an admiralty announcement that the Cossack, perhaps Britain's best known destroyer, had been lost. The two events were apparently unrelated.

The bare announcement gave no details of how the Cossack, which helped sink the German battleship Bismarck, rescued 300 British merchant seamen from the prison ship Altmark and fought in the battle of Narvik, went down or how many of the crew were lost.

Troops Believe Aboard ALEXANDRIA, Egypt (AP)—Thousands of Axis troops destined for North Africa were believed to have been aboard 10 Axis supply ships, all heavily loaded, which were sunk Sunday by British ships in an attack off Southern Italy.

The loss was the greatest single blow to Italians since last spring. The troops were believed bound to reinforce the western desert forces of Major General Erwin Rommel, commander of Axis armies in North Africa.

The action announced here Monday in a British naval headquarters statement was substantially like the admiralty's communique issued in London.

Army Radio School Graduates Frisby

When the new class of graduates in radio communications received diplomas at Scott Field, Ill., on Friday, November 7, among the 319 trained technicians was Pvt. Ellis M. Frisby, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Frisby, 803 E. Division street, Hope. Graduation marked the termination of 22 weeks of intensive training in all phases of radio for Private Frisby. Private Frisby has been assigned to Mather Field, Sacramento, Cal., and will report there for duty soon.

Mayor Albert Graves Issues Red Cross Drive Proclamation

Calls Upon All Spirited Citizens to Contribute During Drive

WHEREAS conditions in the world today have necessitated an unprecedented peacetime extension of our Army, Navy, Marine Corps, Coast Guard; and

WHEREAS our national civilian defense program necessitates a strengthening of all those services essential to the public health and welfare; and

WHEREAS no section of the United States is free from the threat of natural catastrophe or disaster, such as flood, hurricane, tornado, drought, earthquake, fire, explosion, epidemic; and

WHEREAS the international situation still continues to cause intense distress among innocent victims, making essential American aid to suffering humanity abroad; and

WHEREAS the American Red Cross is the only organization in our land equipped and ready, first, to assist, advise and otherwise serve the men of our armed forces and their loved ones at home; second, to carry on in our own and every other community such indispensable welfare programs as Red Cross Public Health Nursing, instruction in Home Nursing, First Aid, Water Safety and all kinds of Accident Prevention, and through the Junior Red Cross in the schools, to act as the medium for service by our young people; third, to render protection and relief in case of the afore-mentioned disasters, and fourth to undertake the administration of American aid to stricken noncombatants and refugees abroad;

WHEREFORE, I Albert Graves, mayor of the City of Hope, Arkansas, proclaim the period of the 1941 American Red Cross Annual Roll Call, from November 11 to November 30, a time during which the public spirited people of this community, both men and women, boys and girls, should make every effort to support and strengthen the Red Cross by enrolling through our local chapter as members of the Red Cross, or by renewing their memberships in it; and I further proclaim that it is the sense of all of us who are residents of Hope that our membership enrollment in the Red Cross must be larger than ever this year, in order to enable this great national organization of ours to meet whatever demands may be made upon it.

Witness my hand and seal this 10th day of November, 1941.

12 Killed in Train Wreck

50 Injured When Passenger Train Is Derailed

KENTON, Ohio (AP)—A passenger train thundering through the night at about 60-70 miles per hour was derailed by a cylinder head blown off of a freight train and piled up into a mass of twisted steel near Dunkirk Sunday night. Twelve were counted dead and 50 injured.

In Chicago I. E. Newcomet, vice-president of the Pennsylvania railroad said the cylinder from a freight train blew out and onto the adjoining track and before there was time to flag the passenger struck the head.

Passengers were tossed helterskelter out of seats and berths into near freezing temperatures. Most of the victims were passengers in the third coach back from the engine.

In the personal make-up of the man, there is found the rare grace which accompanies every movement on the stage; there is the unforgettable head crowned with wavy yellow hair, and the blue eyes which flash fire or twinkle and which makes one think of sun playing on falling rain, especially when his hand does something that calls for unusual approval, or when he is recounting his days back in Bohemia with the circus.

Less than six months after leaving the circus, Kryl was on his way to America, paying for his passage by playing the violin in the orchestra of the ship. Some ten years later Sousa heard of a young cornetist who was working as a sculptor at Crawfordsville, Indiana, engaged in doing a likeness of Gen. Lew Wallace, and hearing him play persuaded him to lay down the chisel and become cornet soloist with his band. A few years later Sousa and other noted bandmasters Kryl was ready to take his place with his symphonic band in the halls of music throughout America. Engagements were held for weeks at a time in Chicago, Philadelphia, St. Louis and Cincinnati, as well as the yearly tours when he crossed and re-crossed the continent playing to packed houses and welcomed as the "picturesque bandmaster," and spoken of frequently as that "cornetist with the golden tone."

The men of the Presbyterian church will have Alex H. Washburn, publisher of the Star, as their guest at the November meeting at 7:30 o'clock Tuesday night. The Rev. Thomas Brewster announced Monday, Mr. Washburn will show on the screen a file of 250 Kodachrome full-color "still" pictures, covering local scenes and people, the Northwestern Proving Ground, the 1939 New York World Fair, and a trip to Mexico City in 1940.

A Thought
God answers sharp and sudden on some prayers. And thrusts the thing we have prayed for in our face. A gauntlet with a gift in't.—Browning.

The Kryl Symphony Orchestra will be presented in concert at the Saenger theater Tuesday night, November 25, under the auspices of the Friday Music club, officials of the Hope musical organization announced Monday.

The concert will be a benefit performance, proceeds to go to the United Service Organizations to help build social clubs and furnish entertainment at the various Army camps throughout the United States.

Critics throughout the world are quite unanimous in their statements that Bohumir Kryl is the greatest cornetist of the present day, and the sobriquet, "The greatest cornetist in the world" is not one of the past year only, but one which he has rightfully possessed for a score of years.

The career of this celebrated conductor reads like a chapter from almost unbelievable fiction. Born in Prague, Bohemia, the son of a sculptor, ran away from home when he was eleven years old and joined a circus then traveling Europe, acting as an acrobat during the shows and playing his cornet in the parade. For two years he cavorted through the air on the trapeze, tumbling and jumping over elephants, and other various antics of the circus tent. But a fateful day arrived when in jumping he met with an accident and walked over two hundred miles to his home town, incidentally quitting forever the circus life.

Less than six months after leaving the circus, Kryl was on his way to America, paying for his passage by playing the violin in the orchestra of the ship. Some ten years later Sousa heard of a young cornetist who was working as a sculptor at Crawfordsville, Indiana, engaged in doing a likeness of Gen. Lew Wallace, and hearing him play persuaded him to lay down the chisel and become cornet soloist with his band. A few years later Sousa and other noted bandmasters Kryl was ready to take his place with his symphonic band in the halls of music throughout America. Renew Attacks on Leningrad

Move Seen as Strategy to Keep Fins in War

By the Associated Press Leningrad, which Adolf Hitler boasted he could storm and capture whenever he wished, was being encircled by two widespread encirclement offensives of the Germans Monday—a bit of grand strategy dictated by chance that Finland might step out of the war before Hitler is ready. Hitler's high command announced the capture of important traffic station of Tikhvin, about 100 miles south-east of Leningrad, as a move moving across the Leningrad-Moscow communication zones.

The other arm of the offensive from the northeast over the Karelian approaches was won by the Finns. The Germans were not talking much about this phase of the new campaign which came to sequel to suggestions by the U. S. that Finland make a separate peace with Russia.

DNE, German news agency, dispatch reaching London said the Finnish government's reply was expected within a few days. The capture of Tikhvin on the night of November 8 was a result of a surprise attack, the Germans said. The captives taken were said to be a part of the 20,000 reported taken on the northern front since October 16, raising the total to 3,032,000 according to the Nazis.

More than 1,000 miles south of Leningrad German and Rumanian troops volloyed and thundered against the Russians defense of Sevastopol, big Red fleet base at the tip of the Crimean peninsula.

The Germans said they were blasting an ever widening breach between the Russians defending Sevastopol and those clinging to the narrow approaches of Kevch to the northeast, sought by the Germans as a jump-off point for a thrust into the Caucasus.

Moscow appeared to be static but London sources reported heavy fighting in both Leningrad and Moscow sectors. They added that the Germans had failed thus far to pierce the outer defenses of Sevastopol. That port city was reported to be under heavy aerial and land bombardment. Kerch likewise was being pounded.

In the regular mid-day communique the Russians said that fighting continued throughout the night all along the front but made no specific mention of the Crimea.

The Moscow radio said the Germans were moving up reserves again before the Soviet capital and forecast a renewal of the central front drive soon and added that "our troops are ready."

Would Back U.S. in Event of War With Japs

Says Pacific Fight Would Bring British Declaration Within Hour

LONDON (AP)—Declaring bluntly that "we do not know whether the effort of the U. S. to preserve peace in the Pacific will be successful" Prime Minister Churchill declared Monday that "if the U. S. should become involved in a war with Japan the British declaration would follow within the hour."

"The war," he warned, "may soon spread to the remaining fourth of the globe."

Speaking at a traditional Lord Mayors luncheon Churchill asserted that it "would be rather dangerous for Japan to provoke gratuitously a struggle with the U. S. in view, among other things, the importance of steel in modern war and the difference in the two nation's steel production."

No Nazi Peace The Prime Minister declared that "all the usual signs and symptoms already manifest that peace offensive may come from Berlin" but said, "however long and hard the toll may be Britain, will never enter into any negotiation with Adolf Hitler nor any Nazi regime."

The Prime minister stated that the "British airforce is now at least equal in size and number, not to speak of quality, to the German airpower." He pointed this out in citing the improvements in Britain's strength as compared to a year ago.

"Now a large part of the U. S. Navy, as Col. Knox has told us, is constantly in action against the common foe and Russia is aiding in the fight against Germany," he declared.

Would Quickly Aid U. S. Churchill said he was taking this occasion "to say—as it is my duty to say—that should the U. S. become involved in war with Japan, Britain would follow within the hour."

He said that "U. S. time honored interests are well known" and added that "they are doing their utmost to find a way of preserving peace in the Pacific."

Of the lease lend he declared: "Never let us again hear that money is the ruling thought and power in the hearts of American democracy. The lease-lend must be regarded, with out a doubt, as the most unsordid act in the whole of recorded history."

After asserting that Britain had "broken," the morale of the Italian Navy, Churchill added:

"We now feel ourselves strong enough to provide a powerful naval force of heavy ships with necessary and ancillary vessels for service, if need be, in the Indian and Pacific oceans."

Kiwanis Club Meet Tuesday

Special Armistice Day Program Planned

A special Armistice Day program is being arranged by Senator James H. Pilkinton to be presented to the Hope Kiwanis Club at their Tuesday noon luncheon in Hotel Henry.

Plans were not complete Monday, but it is expected that in addition to a talk by Senator Pilkinton an outstanding speaker from out of town will appear on the program.

Another feature of Tuesday's program will be the reception of some new members into the club.

Cranium Crackers

Round the World When modern means of transportation and communication are considered, the other side of the world seems but little farther than the other side of town. Hang on, and we'll take a quick trip around this diminishing sphere with some other famous globe girders.

1. Was Magellan the first man to sail around the world? How long did a trip take in his time?

2. Who made the first circumnavigation of the world in 80 days, and who was the author that wrote about it?

3. When was the first group airplane flight around the world made, and was it the fastest trip up to that time?

4. Who made the first solo flight around the world? Had this flyer ever been around by plane before?

5. Who holds the round-the-world flight record today?

After nearly a week of treatment for malaria, partly under a doctor's direction, Seth Oliver "broke out" with measles last Tuesday, without knowing he had been exposed to the disease. If we are able, we'll tell later how many took it from him.
While in Conway Saturday we had an enjoyable chat with Mrs. Willie Abrams, my own cousin, Mrs. W. W.
Newberry and Mrs. Tom Babry. When we had talked about two hours we decided we better disband.
Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Tucker says they won't even know when cold weather comes now, as they live in a new home.

Miss Mary Haynes, Mr. Thompson Are Wed in Home Ceremony

Beauty and brilliance marked the autumn nuptials of Miss Mary Ann Haynes, only daughter of Mrs. Charles A. Haynes and the late Mr. Haynes, and Richard Macy Thompson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Macy G. Thompson of Indianapolis, Indiana and Hope, Arkansas, which was solemnized Saturday evening at eight o'clock at the home of the bride on West Second street. The Reverend Harry Wintermeyer, pastor of Saint Mark's Episcopal church read the impressive service, using the double ring ceremony in the presence of a large gathering of relatives and friends.

The vows were said in the spacious living room before an improvised altar arranged in front of the mantel, which was flanked with southern smilax. Flanking the altar were four candelabra holding white lighted tapers and floor standards of large white Turner chrysanthemums.

Graceful sprays of southern smilax entwined the stairway and broad epergnes leading into the living room. The natural beauty of the room was further enhanced with bowls of chrysanthemums placed at points of vantage.

Preceding the ceremony Mrs. George Brandon of Jonesboro, vocalist, sang "O Perfect Love." She was accompanied by Luther Hollamon, who also played the traditional wedding marches.

The ushers, James William Cantley, Harrison Faith of Indianapolis and Hope, Leonard Ellis, Jr., of Hot Springs, and Thomas M. Purvis, were followed by the matron of honor, Mrs. William F. Willson of Indianapolis, sister of the bridegroom, the maid of honor, Miss Katherine Peters of Winfield, Louisiana, and the bridesmaids, Miss Mary Perry and Miss Sue Rucker of Greenville, South Carolina, Mrs. Thomas M. Purvis, Hope, and Miss Jacqueline Morriston of Beverly Hills, California. Their floor-length gowns were identical models of garnet and powder blue, with a bow of garnet sequins as head dress. Their beautiful flowers were a design in pink Laddie carnations.

Little Miss Roberta Forward was winsome in her junior bridesmaid period gown of blue tulle. She also carried pink carnations. As the dainty flower girl, little Miss Ginnane Graves was given in blue tulle with hair decorations of pink.

The bride, as she descended the stairs on the arm of her brother, Charles A. Haynes, was lovely in her exquisite wedding gown of white slipper satin molded down princess lines with a flounce of Chantilly lace at the bottom extending to the long graceful train. The long sleeves were tight fitting and extended over the wrist. Small satin covered buttons in the back completed the lovely gown. Her full length veil of illusion was held in place with a halo of illusion and orange blossoms. A strand of real pearls, a gift from the bridegroom, was the bride's only ornament. She carried a prayer book topped with a white orchid and show-cers of stelpantosis.

Mr. Thompson had as best man, H. B. Weigle of New York City and Hope.

Immediately after the service a reception was held with the members of the bride party, the bride's mother, the bridegroom's parents, Mrs. A. L. Ryan, grandmother of the bridegroom, and Martin L. Sigman of Monticello receiving the guests.

Assisting in the living room were Mrs. Kline Snyder, who received guests at the door, Mrs. J. M. Houston, Mrs. Albert Graves, Mrs. Catherine Richards Howard, Mrs. C. C. Lewis, Mrs. J. G. Martindale, and Mrs. H. F. J. Garrett.

Mrs. L. W. Young invited the guests into the dining room, where the elaborately decorated bride's table held for its central adornment a four-tiered wedding cake topped with wedding bells placed on a reflector, surrounded with dwarf smilax and dainty bunches of candy tuft. The table covering was of white organza with lace insertions. Garlands of the smilax and candy tuft surrounded the table, and on either side of the cake white tapers burned in five branch-candelabra.

Assisting in the dining room court-esses were Mrs. J. G. Martindale, Mrs. Frank Howsen, and Mrs. Horace McKenzie, Mrs. Edward Bryson, and Mrs. Harris Lanfley of Prescott.

Mrs. Rimmel Young and Miss Louise Polun of Crawfordville, Indiana were in charge of the bride's book. Following the reception Mr. and Mrs. Thompson left for a wedding trip to Indianapolis and points east. Mrs. Thompson attended Miss Chontes school in Boston and was graduated from Gunston Hall in Washington, D. C. last June. Mr. Thompson attended Columbia Military Academy and the University of Michigan. He is with the surveying Department of the Architect-Engineering Division of the Southwestern Proving Ground, Hope.

will wear plastic

TO SAVE METAL FOR UNCLE SAM

We're ready with a wartime telephone in which plastic and steel replace the more vital defense metals—zinc, aluminum, magnesium. It's not a makeshift telephone—it's a good telephone.

In the months ahead, however, you may find it hard to get one. Where all lines in our cables are taken up we can't add new customers quickly, because nearly all the additional cable we can get is required for vital defense construction.

We're making every substitution, salvaging every bit of usable equipment to keep up with orders as well as we can.

We hope that our record over more than 60 years is evidence that we will always be doing our best to keep your service as good as conditions permit.

FOR THE LOVE OF PETE!

By BURTON BENJAMIN

THE STORY: Star footballer Pete Laird isn't the steady, modest boy he was before. Since a big operating game with California, it is after that game that Hollywood's glamorous Stephanie Stevens began an introduction, and Pete stands up his college sweetheart, Anne Humphreys, and said: "I am going to marry you, and I'll be a star." Stephanie's party, however, becomes infatuated with him, does not realize she has been deceived with her manager, Larry Stephens, to use him for his publicity value. University town seems unreal to him when he returns by plane, meets Anne's train, makes a date with her. His anger over newspaper photographs showing him first with Stephanie, then with Anne, is forgotten when Stephanie calls from Chicago, asks him to meet her there. He decides he will go and explain to Anne and his best friend and team captain, George Landers, when he returns.

GEORGE CONFESSES

CHAPTER VI

CONCERN clouded George Landers' face when he strode up to Anne Humphreys on campus the next morning.

"Anne," he inquired, "have you seen Pete?"

"Not since yesterday morning. We had a date last night—and guess what? He didn't show up."

"I'll say he didn't," Landers said dryly. "He wasn't in the apartment last night either."

Anne dug her hands in the big pockets of her coat and frowned.

"I'm worried, George," she said. "Call it woman's intuition or anything you like. I have a hunch sonny's got himself in another jam."

"Hope not," Landers grunted. "Dugan'll take just so much and then..."

"He shrugged his shoulders. "I'll drop over to the house tonight and let you know what's what. That'll give the old hens something to cackle about," he managed a half smile.

"Good," she nodded. "I'll be ready about 7:30."

Pete Laird's absence received official recognition that afternoon. Dugan was collecting the first team for dummy scrimmage. Suddenly he stopped and looked around.

"Hey, Phil," he called to the manager. "Where's Laird?"

"Haven't seen him, Coach."

"Has he an afternoon class?" asked Dugan.

"Nope, he's free after lunch."

Dugan walked over to Landers.

"Where's Pete?" he asked. "He's been around long enough to know when practice starts."

"I don't know, Coach," said Landers, kicking an imaginary hunk of dirt out of his cleats. "Maybe he's got a class or something."

"Yes," Dugan looked at Landers quizzically. "yes, maybe he has."

He blew his whistle. "O. K.—first team over here, seconds down there with Pat. Sheridan take the tailback on the varsity today."

Players stared at Dugan and began looking around for Laird. Several of them whispered among themselves. "All right," snapped Lester, "break it up. We've got a lot to do."

After practice Dugan, Lester and the other coaches dressed in their locker room.

"That Sheridan kid looked good today, Coach," said Lester. "He's fast and tricky out there."

"Couple of years from now he'll be a whizz," grunted Dugan. "Right now, he's young. Isn't as smart as Laird."

"Wonder where that bird is," muttered Lester, squeezing on a shoe. "You don't suppose that Stevens dame..."

"I don't suppose anything," Dugan said quietly. "I'll have a talk with him when he comes around."

ANNE was at the door of the Delt house that night. "Any news?" she asked Landers eagerly.

"Nope," he said quietly, "not a word. The guy's done a fadeout. If he doesn't show tomorrow Dugan'll probably call the police."

Fraternity row was beginning the evening heira to the Delt house. The room grew noisy and crowded as campus smoothies called for their dates. Some headed for an evening at the library, others for a night of juke box jitters. A few set off for the movies.

"Let's get out of here, Anne," said Landers above the bedlam. "I want to talk to you."

She nodded, slipped on a loose covert coat, and they pushed their way through the crowd. People stared at them and one girl whispered loudly: "That'll teach Pete Laird to give her the air!" They hurried out into the street.

It was one of those nights—beautifully crisp, a sky full of stars and a pumpkin moon. Buoyant, Anne took a deep breath of the cool air. "Let's go down to the island, George," she said almost gaily. "It's a perfect night!"

"Fine," he grinned, "just what I hoped you'd say."

He slipped his arm into hers and they walked briskly down the quiet streets. Neither spoke; each was buried in thought. Anne wondered about Pete. Had one short week changed everything? Landers thought of the girl who walked beside him. He had loved her for three years, never saying a word to anyone, always standing by for Laird. And Landers was too realistic to relish the role. He scorned the platonic, the "good-old-George," the nobility of stepping aside and being a good pal. "GOOD-OLD-PAL"—it infuriated him! Unconsciously he prodded himself. "Now's your chance, George. He doesn't care about her any more. You've waited long enough. Tell her, George. Tell her while you've got the chance."

He clasped her hand tightly, and she looked up and smiled. "We're almost there," she said. They were crossing the bridge over the railroad tracks. Beyond them, bathed in moonlight, lay the island—scene of college romances from time immemorial. A little stream played around it and the trees walked lightly in a freshening wind.

They sat down on the bench under the old oak. Neither spoke. Finally Anne broke the silence. "Why so quiet, George?"

"Just thinking," he answered quietly. "Been doing a lot of thinking."

"About Pete?"

"No!" He stood up and fairly shouted it. "Not about Pete! Is that all you think I do—think of Pete, worry about Pete, take care of Pete?" He stopped and sat down. "I'm sorry, Anne. I was thinking about you."

"About me, George?" she said, surprised.

"Yes," he said softly, "about you. Always about you, Anne. It's never been any other way."

She stared at him incredulously. "You mean—I love you, Anne?"

"There, he had said it. And he continued—the words coming easily for he had said them to himself hundreds of times.

"I've always loved you, darling," he said. "I knew there was nothing I could do about it. I'd never have told you, Anne, except that Pete's—well—changed. You know that as well as I do. I'm telling you now because I have a right to."

He took her in his arms and kissed her tenderly. She was all most limp and there were tears in her eyes.

"George," she sobbed, "oh, George, what a fool I've been! I'm so ashamed."

Landers kissed her again and felt her arms tighten around his neck. Suddenly she broke free and stood up.

"What's the matter, darling?" he said, standing behind her.

"George, I'm so confused! I never dreamed... please... I she faltered, "please take me home."

"Sure, Anne," he said. "Sure." (To Be Continued)

Evangelist Bernice Vandermerwe told a huge crowd that filled the Hope Gospel Tabernacle, twice on Sunday. Stating that in changing conditions in the world Christ is the Rock of Ages, the impregnable defense of every genuine Christian, the evangelist cited Biblical and historical events to illustrate the refuge from the horrors of war.

The revival at the Hope Gospel Tabernacle, being conducted by Mrs. Vandermerwe, entered into the second and final week, with services scheduled for every night, except Saturday, at 7:30 o'clock.

Monday night has again been designated as "Musical Night" with a forty-five minute musical program preceding the sermon. Participating in the program will be the Rev. Virgil Hall of San Diego, Calif., Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Williamson, Oklahoma City, Mrs. Vandermerwe, Mrs. J. E. Hamill, the Tabernacle Sextet, and other Tabernacle musicians and singers.

Personal Tax Act Upheld

Supreme Court Asserts Act Constitutional

LITTLE ROCK —(P)—Supreme Court upheld constitutionality of the 1941 delinquent personal property tax collection act Monday one of Governor Homer M. Adkins' pet legislative proposals.

In a 5-2 decision the court reversed a holding of the Pulaski county court that the measure was designed to improve collections of personal property taxes was violative of the constitution. The prevailing opinion was written by Justice T. M. McHaffey and declared that "it is for the law makers to determine public policy of the state," adding that the "constitution not being granted but limitations of power the court should uphold the statute unless the expression or necessarily implied limitation of the legislative power by the constitution."

All presumed that the act is valid and will be upheld unless clearly prohibited by the constitution.

"There is nothing in this act that violates any provision of the constitution," the opinion said.

Library Exhibit to State Meet

'Take Trip Around World' Theme of County Display

"Take a trip around the world by reading books from your County Library" was the theme of the exhibit of the Hempstead County Library at the Arkansas Library Association meeting in Little Rock, November 8 and 9.

This was the same exhibit displayed at the County Fair in Hope, October 13 through 18. This exhibit attracted very much attention and was said to have been the best and most original display ever seen.

Miss Elsie Weisenberger, Hempstead County Librarian, was appointed to serve on the Publicity Committee of the state.

The Hempstead County Library was said to have had more publicity than any county in the state last year.

Miss Elsie Weisenberger of Hope was elected president of the Junior Members Round Table at a breakfast session at the Ole King Cole.

Miss Jessie Miller of Searcy was elected vice-president and Miss Mary Higginbotham of Pine Bluff, secretary-treasurer.

The Junior Members Round Table is affiliated with the American Library Association for Young Librarians. Those attending the meeting from Hempstead county were Miss Joe Jackson, Washington, Miss Dorothy Seipek, Columbus, Miss Elsie Weisenberger, and Charles Reynerson, Hope.

A tragic joke.

What is here depicted is not guesswork. It happened in Germany in the 1920's. It ruined the middle class, closed factories, threw workmen out of jobs, and largely paved the way for the rise of Adolf Hitler.

The bill the House Banking Committee has concocted is not even a weak stab at preventing inflation. It does not deal with the question of wages. When it comes to farm products, it not only permits 110 per cent of so-called parity prices, but in many cases allows 20 per cent above that figure. It should be called a bill to hasten inflation.

Alexandria Goes Ga-Ga

Many Dollars Pour Into Egyptian City Daily

AP Feature Service ALEXANDRIA, Egypt — Not since the lush days of World War I has this ancient city—Egypt's "second capital"—seen such mad spending, such dizzy soaring prices, such roaring night life.

The tens of thousands of dollars that pour daily from the pockets of British seamen off warships based here have swollen the cash boxes of theaters, restaurants, hotels and night clubs. Amusing, and a special scene along the harbor, the rigidly enforced blackout and the fact that Alexandria, like all Egypt, is under martial law have failed to curb the spending spree.

More westernized than Cairo, Alexandria does most things American style. Men and women wear American clothes, drink American beer, smoke American and English cigarettes and the movies are almost exclusive American with French subtitles and a special screen alongside flashing titles in Arabic and Greek.

Local breweries couldn't meet the demand of British armed forces for beer so dealers get their beer off ships from New York. It is the main source of profit for cafe owners.

Food prices mount almost daily despite government warnings and severe penalties for profiteers. The government has requisitioned all wheat supplies in its drive against food speculators. The average lunch in an Alexandria restaurant costs 30 piastres or roughly $1.20 as compared with 18 piastres a year ago. There have been

Federal Grants for Schools

Hope School Application Expected to Be Approved

LITTLE ROCK — Federal aid to North Little Rock and Pulaski county schools, in recognition of added burdens caused by national defense industries, has been approved by the United States Office of Education.

The North Little Rock Special School District will receive $25,000. The Pulaski County Special (rural) School District will get $17,225. The money can be used only for operation and maintenance, and not for buildings.

Education Commissioner Ralph B. Jones said approval of applications filed by Texarkana and Hope schools is expected soon.

Assistance in each district will be based upon the influx of new pupils, whose parents are employed at defense plants. The program was discussed at the Education Department offices last week at a meeting of many Arkansas school officials and a representative of the federal Office of Education.
